ALL-CHINESE RETURN LOADED WITH HONORS

Are Ready To Play Stanford and Will Meet Cardinals At Moiliili Field In Two Games. Many Changes In League

(From Wednesday's Advertiser)

Following a most successful invasion of the Philippines and China, in which they won the Far East baseball championship, the All-Chinese team of Honolulu returned home yesterday on the steamer Siberia. William Tin Chong, who in conjunction with Kim Tong Ho, piloted the team on their triumphant tour was in charge of the aggregation. Kim Tong Ho having remained in Peking to return in the Manchuria.

It was a great trip, said W. Tin Chong shortly after the docking of the Siberia, "and I cannot begin to tell the wonders we saw and the thousands of kindnesses shown us everywhere we went. Manila is a great baseball town and nothing was too good for us. In fact from the time we left until we again set foot in Honolulu it was one continuous round of pleasure."

"Naturally we are proud of our accomplishments and I think we have done much to boost Hawaii and to prove to the world that Chinese can play baseball. Manila seemed to have an idea that we could not play ball and one of the scribes there took occasion to report us, without even having seen us in action. After our first game he changed his mind and became one of our strongest rooters."

China Still Green

"China is still green in the way of baseball, the natives not as yet showing much interest in the pastime, but every time we played we could see a few more at the game than before and I do not doubt but what China will soon take to the National game just as do Americans and others."

"Everybody was good to us and vied with each other in making our trip a pleasant one. We were successful, as the local folks say, by this time the team had won the championship series at Manila and also at the Far East Athletic Association games and as a testimonial of our victories we brought home five magnificent cups from the Orient. These we either won on the diamond or were presented to us by admirers of the team."

"Of course we are glad to get back to Honolulu, there is no place like it. The team will rest up today and to-morrow but Thursday morning we will be in harness again practicing for our games with the Stanford University team."

Adopt A Schedule

One day ahead of the scheduled time, the Oahu Leaguers got together at the office of Senator Alfred L. Castle yesterday and arranged a schedule whereby the Portuguese Athletic Club and Stanford will play at Moiliili Field next Saturday afternoon and the All-Chinese and Stanford will play at the same place next Sunday afternoon.

There will be two games this day, the Saints and All Army playing the first beginning at half-past one o'clock.

W. Tin Chong will use either Luck Yee or Hoon Ki in the box, these two pitchers having carried the team through their successful invasion of the Far East. With Hayer leaving for the Coast today, Maile, Hayes or Wickertman will pitch for the Cardinals. Stanford is anxious to win this game and Captain Tom Workman has begun putting his men through a double shift of practice, once in the morning and once in the afternoon, at Moiliili Field.

Will Not Change

The directors discussed the reported proposition of Athletic Park regarding the League and the Park people entering into a partnership and bringing the California Varsity team to Honolulu next month. No action was taken on the matter for the reason that no communication had been received from Athletic Park and what proposition there was, was merely hearsay.

At the directors did not look with favor on the plan. Some of the directors expressed themselves as willing to play their teams against California on a basis of eighty per cent to the Park and twenty per cent to the local team, the Athletic Park management to stand all expenses, including transportation of the mainland team, their upkeep and operating expenses. It was also reported at the meeting that Athletic Park was willing to sign the agreement drafted several weeks ago but this was laid on the table and decided that the Oahu League would continue playing baseball at Moiliili Field.

According to Manager Al Castle of the Punahou High team will withdraw from the league for the balance of the season, the players being privileged to play with any team they like but with the proviso they return to Punahou next season should the league play Saturday baseball. This means that with the finish of the Stanford series, Saturday baseball will be paid as it is not a paying venture in Honolulu and the League will stage double headers on Sunday only.

Regarding the All-Japanese team, there is a possibility of their withdrawing also, which will leave the League a four club affair, which with those teams reinforced, with Punahou players, assures the baseball fans of Honolulu exactly what they have been looking for and which means a much improved brand of baseball.

It was also agreed at the meeting that Stanford and the All-Chinese would play July 4, at Moiliili Field, which means that there is little likelihood of the University of California team coming to Honolulu this year.

WANTS SPEED BOAT TO DO 60 MILES AN HOUR

Determined to elude the speed boat hunters for the coming year Commodore James A. Pugh, the millionaire Chicago sportsman, has started construction of a twenty-foot hydroplane into which he will crowd 2000-horse power. The new boat, to be christened "Disturber IV," will be, by all odds, the most heavily powered twenty-foot hydroplane in the world, and Commodore Pugh's experiments are watched by speed boatmen with immense interest. The new boat is designed by Ned Simons, of Chicago, who planned the "Disturber IV," which went to England last year and was deprived of the opportunity of lifting the Harmsworth international trophy by the outbreak of the war, which caused the cancellation of the race.

Commodore Pugh is said to have obtained fifty-nine miles an hour with the big forty-foot "Disturber IV," but is not content to rest until he has attained sixty miles an hour. He expects the new "Disturber" to turn the trick. The forty-footer has twenty-four cylinders, developing 1800 horse power. The new engine will be designed and built by the Dusenberry Brothers, who made the "Disturber IV's" power plant.

FINISH STEEL WORK ON NAVAL COAL DOCK

Structural steel work has been completed on the navy coal dock at Pearl Harbor. The six steel experts who have been in the employ of the Honolulu Mill Company departed this week for the mainland, some going on the Manoa and others on the Siberia. The mill company had the contract for the labor on the structural work, the material being furnished by the government. The remainder of the work will also be done by the government.

HAWAIIAN PLANTERS TO SHIP MOLASSES

Hakalau Plantation Company Will Enter Market With Coast—Others To Follow

That it be granted permission to set up two immense molasses tanks and pumps, one ashore and the other on the Kahoia wharf in Hilo Harbor, was the subject of a request received and read before the harbor commission yesterday afternoon from the Hakalau Plantation Company.

It is pointed out that this will facilitate the handling of molasses to a great extent in shipping it from Hawaii to the coast for commercial purposes, where it is to be used in the making of alcohol, cyrup and to mix with alfalfa for feed, as it has been mixed with cane tops here for many years for the same purpose.

After some discussion at the meeting the members of the harbor board went on record as favoring the granting of the permission requested by the Hakalau company, which is to pay to the government a cent for each barrel of molasses that is to pass over the wharf for shipment.

Details To Be Worked Out

"There are, however, a number of details to be worked out before the board can take final action on the proposition," said Col. Charles J. McCarthy, member of the board, to the Advertiser yesterday. "There is some question as to the rights of the board as regards the shore end of the proposition. This will be taken up with the land commissioner's department. To study out all the details of the proposed transaction the board will hold a special meeting Saturday afternoon at half past one o'clock, when it will go into committee of the whole on the subject."

"Of course, to have all question, the board will insist that the pipe over the wharf shall be owned and controlled by the board," said Colonel McCarthy. "It would not do to allow private concern to control the pipe line over this wharf, as every time the wharf should be repaired dispute might arise as to the disposition of the pipe."

Railroad To Figure

The molasses will be transported from Hakalau in specially built tank cars by the Hilo Railroad Company, which will come into quite a little business on this account. The molasses will be pumped into the shore and wharf tank, and when the shipment to California, or elsewhere, is to be made, it will be pumped into the hold of the vessel.

As the success of the experiment is demonstrated it is believed that other plantations along the line, such as the Honouliuli Sugar Company, Hawaii Mill Company, Waialeale Mill Company, Oahu Sugar Company and the North Hilo and Hamakua sugar mills will follow suit. Plantations Already Doing It.

Molasses is now being sent to the coast in bulk by the Waialeale Sugar Company, Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company, Maui Agricultural and Sugar Company and the Honolulu Plantation Company. The product has been used on the coast for making alcohol and cyrup and recent experiments in mixing the crude product with alfalfa for stock feed having proved successful and profitable and as a commercial enterprise a new avenue of trade is thus assured.

John A. Buck, president of the Hakalau Plantation Company, which, by the way, is a California corporation, is very optimistic over the proposition. "I believe that it will be a good thing all around and that it will help business generally," Mr. Buck says.

As the proposition now stands the Hakalau Plantation will put up at its own cost the shore and wharf tanks and pumps. The eight-inch pipe connecting the tanks will be placed over the wharf by the government and for its use the company will pay a royalty of one cent for each barrel of molasses shipped from the wharf.

BANDITS WHO SHOT POLICEMAN KILLED

At an early hour yesterday morning Pedro Sanguen and Francisco Candido were brought to the police station and were entered on the blotter at twenty minutes past two o'clock.

The Filipinos were concerned in the shooting of Police Officer Matsugoro, which occurred in Waikakalua Gulch about two weeks ago.

Matsugoro had arrested the men at Waialeale on a charge of burglary committed at Mokuiaia and was taking them to Waialeale to be locked up when one of them turned on the officer and shot him three times, twice in the body and once in the neck. Candido will be charged with the shooting.

The men were found near the pineapple cannery at the other side of the Park. They offered no resistance to their captors and were brought to Honolulu and taken to the police station. The prisoners have been identified by Policeman Gray of Waialeale as the men who were arrested at Waialeale Matsugoro. Yesterday morning the Filipinos were taken to the Fort Shafter hospital, where the Japanese officer is lying, and were identified by him. Matsugoro is reported to be in a serious condition, one bullet having penetrated an intestine.

On Candido were found a gold watch and some jewelry which the Filipinos are said to have admitted having stolen from a house in King street, shortly after their escape from Matsugoro.

The Filipinos say that they have been in Honolulu on a number of occasions since the shooting of the officer.

Funeral of Late Charles Reed Bishop Attended By Royalty and High Officials

Impressive Exercises At Church Followed By Depositing Ashes At Tomb

(From Thursday Advertiser)

SIMPLE and impressive were the services held in Kawaiaha Church yesterday afternoon over the ashes of the late Charles Reed Bishop, who died at the Shattuck Hotel, Berkeley, California, on June 7.

Hawaiian royalty, represented by Queen Liliuokalani in person; leaders in church work, representatives of the foremost business houses of the city, of educational institutions, federal officials, including Army and Navy, representatives of the territorial and municipal government, and hundreds of citizens, men and women, in private life filled the ancient Hawaiian church to do honor to their presence to the memory of Hawaii's greatest and most loved philanthropist.

Shortly before three o'clock Queen Liliuokalani attended by Col. Curtis P. Iaukea and others, arrived at the church. As Hawaii's last monarch walked up the central aisle all present stood, remaining standing until the Queen took her seat.

Ashes in State

The metal urn, containing the ashes of the deceased, and which was in turn placed in a mahogany case, highly polished, reposed on a stand in front of the pulpit. The case was surrounded by a mass of beautiful Calla lilies, priceless royal feather kahilis standing guard over all. To the right of the great organ, over which Miss Hattie Ayan presided, stood a number of the Daughters of Hawaiian Warriors, with the rich and varicolored capes, the insignia of the order, drooping from their shoulders, mantle-like. To the left were members of the Order of the Daughters of Hawaii. The choir was hidden in a mass of ferns, palms, beautiful magnolias and Calla and other lilies.

As the Queen took her seat the honorary pallbearers entered from the vestry and sat to the left of the central aisle. Miss Hattie Ayan playing an organ prelude. The pallbearers were Hon. W. D. Smith, Judge Sanford B. Dole, A. W. T. Bottomley, P. C. Jones, Delegate J. K. Kalaniana'ole, Charles Reed Bishop, F. W. Macfarlane, W. M. Alexander, Henry Smith and Prof. A. F. Griffiths.

Service For the Dead

A quartet, composed of Arthur Wall, first tenor; Dudley French, of the Kamehameha School for Boys, second tenor; George A. Brown, first bass, and Leslie French, of Punahou Academy, second bass, sang "Still, Still With Thee," their voices blending harmoniously. The singing of this number and the other later on was both a treat and feature of the service.

Following a Scripture reading, Rev. H. H. Parker, pastor of Kawaiaha church, spoke feelingly of the great man, whom he had known in life as one beloved all over Hawaii. Mr. Parker said that it was twenty-one years since he had last seen Charles Reed Bishop. Mr. Bishop was then leaving Hawaii to take up his residence in California.

"He spoke to me feelingly about his dead wife, the Princess Bernice Pauahi, and of the special interest she always had felt during all her life for the young people of her race," said Mr. Parker, recounting this last conversation with Mr. Bishop.

"I should say anything about Mr. Bishop," I would talk to the young people of Hawaii, especially the young Hawaiians, of Mr. Bishop and the princess, his wife, and their great life work for the youth of this land."

Mr. Parker said that no man more upright, straightforward and honest had he ever known than Mr. Bishop. "There was no sham, no hum, no double-dealing about him. His word could always be depended upon," said the speaker. "Bright, square and fearless he was a man in his every word and action. He was always loyal to right; he never believed in doing wrong that might come of it."

"The royal Hawaiian motto: 'Ea mau ke oia i ka ua i ka pono,' 'the life of the land is established in righteousness,' was no mere sentiment with Mr. Bishop. He believed in it and in his everyday life carried out its injunction. Mr. Bishop was human; he was humane. He was always sober and serious. His austere appearance gave one the idea that he was entirely unapproachable. This was not so; he was most approachable, in fact."

"I cannot say that he is dead. He is only away. His spirit is here. The work for good that he did in life will abide with us. As a philanthropist, I have known none greater than he."

Mr. Parker closed his address with a prayer, which was most feelingly given. Rev. H. K. Poeper, pastor of the Kakaia Church, who occupied the pulpit jointly with Mr. Parker, the pastor, gave a lengthy address in Hawaiian. He spoke of the life work of the deceased. Of the good that he did in life and that now endures to the benefit of the Hawaiian race.

The quartet next sang "Peace, Perfect Peace," after which Rev. Mr. Parker pronounced a short benediction.

With H. H. Williams, undertaker in charge of the funeral, leaving, the pallbearers filed out of the church, the urn being carried by Fred W. Becklev and deposited in an automobile in which Undertaker Williams rode.

Funeral Cortege

The machine bearing Queen Liliuokalani, Colonel Iaukea and others, was the first to leave the church grounds in the solemn procession to the royal mausoleum in Nuuanu Valley. The pallbearers followed in the next two automobiles; other machines came in order, carrying the following: Reverends Mr. H. H. Parker and H. K. Poeper, H. H. Williams with the urn containing Mr. Bishop's ashes; E. Fax, the Bishop and family, Mrs. Samuel M. Damon and attendant, A. P. Judd and family, J. M. Dowsett and family, Dr.

William T. Brigham, curator of the Bishop Museum; Kamehameha Schools faculty, Guy H. Gere and party, trustees of Punahou, faculty of Punahou, Acting Governor and Mrs. Thayer, other civic officials, Henry Holmes and family, and private citizens.

Details of Kamehameha cadets and girls from Kamehameha Schools followed in electric cars.

Arrived at the mausoleum grounds the Queen's automobile was the only one allowed to enter, the balance of the funeral cortege waiting about. The Royal Hawaiian Band, led by Prof. Henri Berger, played a number of funeral dirges, while the procession filed into the grounds. This was Professor Berger's last official act in connection with the band that he has led for upward of forty years, he retiring on July 1, having been pensioned by the last legislature.

Ceremony at Royal Mausoleum

The ceremony at the tomb of the Kamehameha was short and simple. The urn was carried into the tomb by the pallbearers and placed by Prince Kalaniana'ole on the coffin of Mr. Bishop's life partner, the Princess Bernice Pauahi, while Rev. Mr. Parker pronounced a short benediction. The pallbearers and Mr. Parker filed out of the resting place of kings, the heavy metal doors were shut and bolted. This marked the placing of the ashes of the late Charles Reed Bishop in their last earthly resting place.

Flags were half-masted throughout the city all yesterday afternoon, over the main hall recently underwent public buildings, courts, government offices and most of the important business houses of the city were closed.

REV. FRANCIS W. DAMON

Death claimed Rev. Francis Williams Damon, one of the foremost workers of the Pacific, at half-past five o'clock yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Damon died at Moanalua, the suburban estate of his brother, Samuel M. Damon. He had been suffering from a nervous breakdown during the past three years, an extended trip through the Hawaiian Islands, recently undertaken, being unable to improve the condition of his health.

Born in Honolulu

Francis Williams Damon was born in Honolulu on December 10, 1852, and would have been sixty-three years of age next December. He was a son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Chesebrough Damon, descendants of early church workers of Massachusetts and Connecticut. His father and mother were pioneer church workers in Hawaii and Honolulu, the father having been Samuel's chaplain and pastor of the old Bethel Church, which stood at the corner of King and Bethel streets, for many years.

"Chinese School and Mission Worker," was the title which the deceased enjoyed and of which he was proudest during his long and useful life. In order to fit himself for work among the Chinese in Hawaii he learned the language and learned it well.

Secretary of Embassy

He was first educated in the schools of Honolulu; and later attended Amherst, from where he graduated in 1873, returning to Honolulu and taking up immediately his church career. The year of his graduation he was appointed to the chair of languages at Punahou, holding this position until 1878. In 1877 Rev. Mr. Damon went to Berlin as private secretary and interpreter for Henry A. P. Carter, then Hawaiian minister at the German imperial court. The year following he was appointed secretary of the Hawaiian legation in Berlin, a position he held until 1881 when he returned to Honolulu.

While holding this diplomatic position Mr. Damon traveled extensively in Europe, particularly in Germany, Norway, and Sweden, and wrote extensively to the "Friend," the local missionary organ, on these travels under the caption of "Rambles in the Old World."

Met Wife in China

Mr. Damon returned from Europe to Hawaii by way of India and China. In China he made a deep study of the language and customs of the people. In Canton he met the girl who shortly after was to become his wife and life partner. In 1884 Mr. Damon visited China again, to continue his studies among the Chinese people. On May 1 of that year he was married to Miss Mary Happer, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Happer, American missionaries among the Chinese. Rev. Damon's parents were with him on this trip. Miss Happer's father, assisted by Rev. Damon's father, performed the marriage ceremony.

The newly married couple came to Honolulu soon after, both eminently fitted for the life work which was then beginning in earnest for them. Here they took up religious work among the Chinese of the city for the Hawaiian Board of Missions, making their residence at the old Damon home on Chaplain street, an old landmark of the city, long since removed.

Surviving him, besides his wife, Mrs. Mary Happer Damon, are five children, Violet Happer, wife of Dr. Frank Putnam of Lihue, Kauai; Miss Mary Vera

DR. PHILIP F. FREAR

Dr. Philip F. Frear of this city died at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Walter Frear, Oakland, California, on Monday, following an illness of almost two years. He left Honolulu in November, 1913, suffering from a nervous breakdown. Some time ago Doctor Frear was reported to be improving, but his ailment took a turn for the worse. News of his death was received here yesterday by Walter F. Frear, former Governor of Hawaii. Other than that the funeral services and burial will take place in Oakland, no further information has been received here either by Doctor Frear's widow or his brother, Walter F. Frear of this city. Mrs. Frear, who is a member of the faculty of the Mills School in Manoa, had intended visiting California this summer. The death of her husband may, however, cause her to alter her plans.

Besides the widow, the deceased is survived by his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Walter Frear of Oakland; two brothers, Walter F. Frear of this city and Hugo P. Frear of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, and three sisters, Mrs. E. F. Woolward of Santa Rosa, Miss Henrietta Frear of Oakland and Mrs. Frederick Burk of Kempfield, California, wife of the president of the State Normal School of San Francisco.

Thomas Sammons, American consul general at Shanghai, will arrive here from the Orient in the Manchuria next month, probably July 12 or 13.
